Facts about Southern Seminary

- Founded in 1859 in Greenville, SC, as the first seminary in the Southern Baptist Convention.
- Moved to Louisville, KY, in 1877 and to its present campus on Lexington Road in 1926.
- First session in 1859 included 26 students and four professors. By 1926, Southern Seminary was the largest seminary in the world.
- Southern was one of the first theological institutions to pioneer doctoral-level study. Southern’s Ph.D. was the first Doctor of Philosophy degree to be offered by a seminary in the U.S.
- In 1906, Southern created the nation’s first Christian education program.
- Today Southern Seminary is one of the largest seminaries in the world and the second largest of the denomination’s six seminaries.
- Boyce College, a school of Southern Seminary, offers fully accredited associate and baccalaureate degrees in Biblical Studies.
- The 70-acre main campus features buildings in classical Georgian architecture. The newest addition, the Legacy Center, houses conference and guest rooms.
- One of the few seminaries to offer an extensive Health and Recreation facility.
- State-of-the-art classrooms designed with video projectors for presentations, internet access, and other innovative learning options.
- The James P. Boyce Centennial Library’s extensive collections now exceed 900,000 catalogued items including materials from Dr. Boyce’s personal library and premier collections in the area of Baptist studies. The holdings of the Boyce Library rank it among the foremost seminary libraries in North America.
- More than 4,000 students representing all 50 states, 45 foreign countries and some 700 colleges and universities make up the student body of Southern Seminary.
- Thanks to the Cooperative Program, tuition for each Southern Baptist student is substantially reduced, making Southern Seminary and Boyce College excellent values for theological education.
